Summary

Over the past several years, I have had the incredible privilege of teaching nothing short of amazing. Each day, I stepped into the classroom with boundless my passion for the English language with my students. Witnessing their growth and progress has been immensely rewarding. Whether explaining complex grammar concepts, expanding their vocabulary, or refining their writing along their language-learning journey. Moreover, I cherished the opportunity to create an inclusive environment where students felt comfortable expressing their perspectives.

These years of teaching have not only enriched the lives of my students but also enriched me as an educator. I am grateful for the memories, the connections forged that I was able to instill in my students. Teaching English has been an extraordinary experience that I will forever hold dear in my heart.
